SECRETARIES OF CONFERENCES AND MISSIONS

The following list of Secretaries, with their post office addresses, is published herewith as an aid to the Bishops and Conference Secretaries in making the transfers of preachers, especially during the time of the Conference sessions. Often they are hindered, if it should be the Fall Conference that is being held, in making the transfer to a Spring Conference, by not knowing to whom to send the certificate of transfer. It is hoped this may be of advantage both to the Bishop and the Secretary.

This list is correct according to the latest information. SPRING CONFERENCES are designated by a (*). FALL CONFERENCES are unmarked.—EDITOR.

NOTICE

No Statistics have been received from the Baltic and Slavic Mission Conference, Congo Mission Conference, Rhodesia Mission Conference, Russia Mission Conference, and Pacific Japanese Mission.

The figures last received are used in the Recapitulation Table near the end of the General Minutes.

NOTICE

The Shantung Conference has only held one session since its organization. The Statistics have been received, but no Questions or Appointments, and there are none to repeat.

This note must suffice for this year.

DEATH ROLL

DEATH ROLL

The Editor plans to make the Death Roll tell a very brief story of each brother who has answered the last call. Many men who write Memoirs do not easily get all the data desired, but they do the best they can. We are grateful for this service. One line in memory of the servants whose work is done.

MEMOIR

A PRINCE IN ISRAEL HAS GONE

THE REV. DAVID DRYDEN FORSYTH, D.D.

Corresponding Secretary Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, 1916–1926. Born in Dane County, Wisconsin, March 5, 1864; died in Chicago, Ill., November 8, 1926.

David Dryden Forsyth is gone. His sudden death came as a shock to all who knew him, what he was and what he was doing. To say that he had been for the past ten years Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension conveys no suggestion of either the amount or the quality of his contribution to that part of Methodist World Service that is carried on under the flag.

The General Conference of 1916 took in hand the antiquated and inadequate machinery of its Home Missions organization, pulled it apart, and rebuilt it on an improved design, more closely adapted to the expanding and diversified needs of the American nation. The plan was revolutionary, and the General Conference determined to intrust its execution to one executive instead of three, and on the second ballot elected an almost unknown man, David D. Forsyth of Colorado.

Doctor Forsyth was the West personified, built physically and mentally on a generous plan. Born in Wisconsin, brought up in Nebraska and trained at the State University and at Garrett with the young Western preachers, he had followed the star of empire to Wyoming and the Rockies. In Colorado he reached his early prime as pastor of large churches, superintendent of Denver District, and had displayed qualities of energy and judgment as chief of the Denver University campaign which marked him for larger fields of responsibility and action. Bishop McConnell, keen appraiser of men and of opportunities, in 1915 brought this efficient administrator and leader to public notice by suggesting him for the new post of Field Secretary of the Board of Education, which was then planning a forward movement. But a few months later the General Conference at Saratoga Springs picked him up from his seat in the Colorado delegation and placed him at the head of the Home Missions Board, with a mandate to produce results.

Doctor Forsyth, almost a stranger to the Church in 1916, is now everywhere recognized as one of the ablest of Board executives. His success was due to several things.

He was a tremendous worker, energetic and systematic. By wide travel, and intense observation, inquiry and application, he succeeded in acquiring such a store of well digested information concerning the Methodist churches in the United States as no one else has ever even approximated. Having this extraordinary fund of information, he had also the gift of reticence and reserve. He did not thrust his opinions upon his colleagues but held them back until all the others had been presented. They gained in weight by reason of the fact that they were not asserted as the final word. Thus he was a valuable counselor.

So steady and wise he was! A "jumpy" secretary, taking up his tasks under the conditions which prevailed at the time of his election, would scarcely have outlasted the quadrennium. But his frankness and fairness, his evident determination to keep himself aloof from petty and local disputes, and to be the servant of the whole Church, made it impossible to cherish grudges against him. He was friendly, genial, approachable, and though apparently easy-going, he usually knew his destination and boarded a train that would arrive in ample time. Though mild of exterior and gracious in manner, the giant's strength that was in him could flash forth mightily on occasion. For there was nothing flabby about this big man. He was probably stronger and more influential than he himself realized. Perhaps, so quietly did he prevail, even the Church is not fully aware how forceful he really was.—Christian Advocate, New York.

David Forsyth was first a mountain-man. Those regions that mark the eastern slope of the ranges that pile up against the sunset of the matchless West form the background of his life. In his early years and full-grown manhood foothills and mountains fill in the picture. He stood supported by great altitudes. He was measured by the size and form of inimitable promontories. His broad shoulders were made to lift, were intentioned for responsibility, were shaped for destiny. His deep-set eyes, under shaggy brows, were those of a seer. His large head, sheathed by shocks of heavy black hair, gave him the appearance of distinction, also of one in whom the spirit of high sovereignty dwelt.

In that day of mountain climbing he was master of the range. In that day of adventure on long and lonely trails he was dominant and commanding. It was given to him by nature to tower and to achieve. In that period of his life he cannot be understood without some understanding of the mountains in the background.

There came a time when his eminent position and his unusual genius attracted attention beyond the limits of the horizon in which he had hitherto moved.

The mountain-man of Colorado was called to become the Gibraltar of the Board of Home Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He had the character material and the personal qualities developed in him that would serve during the greatest period of that Board.

Then it came to pass that no man could understand David Forsyth without taking the background of his life into account, namely: the American people. He had attained unto mastery, not of a section, or of a celebration, but of a nation's problems in the field of home missions. As prophet, statesman, trusted authority, and responsible constructionist, he rose to altitudes hitherto unoccupied by a predecessor.

He held America in the grasp of his intellect; an intellect made great by mountain measurements and attainments. He knew the problems of races and immigrants, of coal mines and coke ovens, of villages and congested cities, of church and state, of low wages and social injustice, of high citizenship and noble living, of public servants and grafting politicians. The sweep of his vision was that of a continent, the concern of his heart was that of a mighty people. Then he became an advocate of great causes. He built an altar and turned it into a public forum from which rose the incense of patriotism and the rallying call of broadminded Americanism. His voice sounded forth with power and authority until his message carried conviction to all classes of his countrymen.—Western Christian Advocate.

I think—and from the very first word of this sketch I have been all the time thinking—of a majestical figure which, however you may contrast them in bulk, still were run in the same type of mold. I am thinking of the colossus, Abraham Lincoln. He was the greater, the colossus, but his figure on the sky looms beyond that of David D. Forsyth. Both men came out of the frontier; both were, till the end, men of the people rather than the tailor shop. Both, according to their summons, had responsibilities put on them; both stretched their arms for friendship; both got it. But behind the friendship lay the solitudes. The cedars on the mountains stand against the sky alone.

David D. Forsyth had friendship with two or three. He had it with the one who spoke at his funeral. Between those men there was no veil. There was no volubility even there. Friendship speaks enough, a little; the algebra of understanding supplies the rest. With the office staff and the heads of the departments from Bishop Berry, president, down, he was one hundred per cent congenial, courteous and so far as opportunity arose confidential.

Doctor Forsyth was wrapped up in his family. Their son is in Harvard; their daughter Margaret is a Y. W. C. A. worker in West Virginia. They and Mrs. Forsyth survive.

Two services were held, one in Chicago, one in Kearney. In Chicago, the burial service only was read; there was no sermon. Each service was conducted by Bishop Francis John McConnell, in whom with David Forsyth the ancient story of David and John-athan was again lived.

The funeral was simplicity itself. The congregation stood and the deep throat of the organ shook the roof as the body was taken to the altar. The ritual was read by Doctor Auman and Bishop Burns. Bishop Mead made the prayer. Bishop McConnell spoke. The congregation filed past the snow-white face. The interment was in the Kearney Cemetery.

And there is an empty space against the sky.—Central Christian Advocate.
